This online course introduces students to the interdisciplinary field of Women’s Studies by focusing on contemporary work by women about their different identities and social locations. To study gender means to study it as it intersects with race, class, sexuality, dis/ability, and nation (to name a few categories). Come join this class to gain a greater knowledge of the social categories and important cultural forces animating contemporary feminism and gender justice, as well as other intersecting social movements.

CRN 52007   W S 202G    M72
Online Course
Dr. Jonet: mjonet@nmsu.edu
Register Today!